

CAE Ransohoff is now ISO-14001 Certified.

Cincinnati, Ohio, 25, February 2002 – CAE Ransohoff announced today that its Cincinnati based headquarters and manufacturing facility is among the first in its industry to achieve certification to the ISO-14001 global environmental standard. To earn this recognition, CAE Ransohoff has implemented an Environmental Management System that has been audited and registered by KPMG. The ISO-14001 standard certifies that a company has the management systems in place to adequately control the impact on the environment of its activities, products and services. The CAE Ransohoff Environmental Management System represents a structured approach to setting environmental objectives and targets, assuring compliance to all regulations and ongoing continuous improvement activities.

This success in complying with the ISO family of environmental standards follows an equally important success achieved less than two years ago when Ransohoff achieved registration to the international automotive quality standard of QS-9000TE/ISO-9001. CAE Ransohoff is also certified as a Ford Q1 supplier.

Dwayne Reynolds, Manager of Quality and Environmental Systems for CAE Ransohoff, Inc. said, "This is just one of the many steps we have taken to improve our products, processes and now our environment." Jim McEachen, President of CAE Ransohoff, further emphasized, "This is a tremendous accomplishment for our entire team and it is a significant tribute to everyone's efforts that we were able to achieve certification on the first try". This certification reinforces CAE Ransohoff's commitment to continuous improvement, total customer satisfaction and to the importance of being a good neighbor in the community.
